

Richard G. Rhoda is the executive director of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission, a post he has held since 1997. Since last July, he also is the interim executive director of the Tennessee Student Assistance Corporation.

He served previously with the Tennessee Board of Regents in numerous staff capacities, including chief academic officer and acting chancellor. While serving on the Regents staff, he also served as interim president of Nashville State Technical Community College and Austin Peay State University. He served earlier in the administration of Tennessee State University.

He has taught on the undergraduate and graduate levels at Vanderbilt University where he continues as an adjunct professor.

Dr. Rhoda serves on a number of boards, including the Tennessee Board of Regents, the University of Tennessee Board of Trustees, the Tennessee Student Assistance Corporation Board of Directors, of which he is vice chair, and the Tennessee Foreign Language Institute, which he chairs.

On the national level, he is active in the State Higher Education Executive Officers organization and the Education Commission of the States, of which he serves as treasurer.

Dr. Rhoda holds a B.A. in History, an M.A. in Education, and the PhD. in Higher Education Administration, all from Vanderbilt University.
